the 1990s, the number of people in the UK with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (1999) has set out a vision of a new mental health system, which will be based on the following principles: (1) people with mental health problems should be treated as individuals, with their own needs and wishes; (2) people should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care; (3) people should be given the opportunity to live as normal as possible; (4) people should be given the opportunity to live in their own homes; (5) people should be given the opportunity to live in their own communities; (6) people should be given the opportunity to live in their own families; (7) people should be given the opportunity to live in their own neighborhoods; (8) people should be given the opportunity to live in their own country.

Foreword

In publishing this issue of the Crown Point High School Inklings, the Senior Class is aware of the fact that it is only a meager summary of the numerous activities and events of the school year.

Yet we wish to bring before the people of this community this review of events, and pictures of the organizations and classes, because we feel that as a result the community will have a more vital interest in the future program of the school.

We, the Senior Class of 1931, sincerely thank all those, who, through their support and counsel, have made this paper possible.

Senior Reminiscences on the Faculty

Not all of us were privileged to know Mr. Grinstead but those who can dimly recall the class in General Social Science offered for a semester for the mid-year class remember him as an excellent teacher, one who knows students and their problems. He was principal during his term of service at C. P. H. S., which ended mid-term, 1927. Mr. Leinweber is well remembered by all who knew him, for his activities as assistant superintendent and principal kept him constantly before the student body. Mr. Schmitt's smile greets us as we look back for not only was he our superintendent but he guided us through the perilous canyons of Algebra. Each of Miss Blind's students know that his or her use of English has been broadened by presence in her classes. Efficiency and deft management characterize for us Miss Holser, who initiated the school cafeteria and started some of the senior girls on the road to domesticity. A cheery "good-morning" reminds us of Miss Ingersoll, the blond, smiling young woman who laid the foundations of our French department. Those who had Algebra III under Mr. Gocker remember his quietness of manner and his thorough explanations. Mr. Crane's manual training shop was a source of interest for the boys. Mr. Paton's interests were mostly with the upper-classmen but his un-failing good humor helped start the day right. He was also sponsor of the Hi-Y Club. The excellent work done by Miss Coffman in the speech department will not soon be forgotten; she also had charge of Latin. The year of 1928-29 brought several new faces. Remember all the field trips with Mr. Stephens, you biology students? And the drawing—me of the sophs thought they had wandered into art class by mistake! Miss Haven came to replace Mr. Faton in the teaching of social studies, and did—methodically and well. Mrs. Schmitt, wife of the superintendent, took charge of the French classes. Miss Cultra gave us just a taste of her charming personality before she undertook to practice all she had learned about household management on her newly acquired husband. Miss Rodenberger looked after the health of the students in her capacity as school nurse.

Senior Class History

At midyear promotion time, 1927, a group of bewildered eighth graders transformed by the magic wand of the report card into freshmen, wandered around the halls wondering why everything looked so different now that they were freshies. They settled down into the classes that were finally arranged for the bothersome little pests, and fondly imagined that they looked like real high school students.

Next year emboldened by the addition of more eighth graders as well as students from the parochial schools and the country, they elected their class officers: President, Janet Iddings; Vice-President, Harold Hershman; Secretary, Gretchen Haddon and Treasurer, Ruth Letz. Nothing very constructive was accomplished that year—there were a couple of class parties which were lots of fun. At the end of the year the freshmen—sophomore hunt turned out to be a failure, for the freshies, because they couldn't locate the class of '30. It was in this year that the class was saddened by the loss of one of their members, Gerald Holloway, who died very suddenly in November.

The officers during the sophomore year were President Marjorie Seramur; Vice-President Charles Busenburg; and Secretary-Treasurer, Mary Margaret Benjamin. The most important thing that the class did that year was to select their class rings, which were extremely good looking and apparently pleased the whole class. In the operetta "Tulip Time", the class was represented by Janet Iddings as one of the cast, and several girls and boys in the choruses.

In the junior year the class started with a sense of real responsibility and of big things to come. As officers they choose: Mary Margaret Benjamin, president; George Everetts, vice-president; Maxine Norton, secretary; and Virginia Kyle, treasurer. The class play, "The Family Upstairs" proved a big success, for not only did the cast perform with creditable ease but it netted the class a nice sum of money. The class was well represented in the operetta "Sun Bonnet Girl" by Doris Enterline, Florence Selkow, Mary Jane Fritts, Alice Burroughs, Mildred Letz and Bob Sherman. Several more members were in the choruses. Later in the year the "junior spring dance" provided entertainment for an appreciative group of high school students and outsiders. Even the junior-senior hunt proved the prowess of the juniors, for did they not catch the over confident upper classmen? To soften the sting of that disgrace, however, they made the junior-senior banquet that year bigger and better than ever. It was held at the community building and a large number attended.

The officers for the senior year were: John Pullen, president; Florence Selkow, vice-president; Katherine Fisher, secretary and Harold Hershman, treasurer. Later in the year, when John Pullen moved away Florence Selkow took his place as president and Robert Sherman was elected vice-president. Marjorie Seramur was made the 1931 queen of the Carnival. In the operetta Orville Truelli, Doris Enterline Robert Sherman, Harold Hershman, Viola Weber, Harold Hodges, and Maxine Norton were a part of the cast and also the largest part. Of course there were several others in the choruses and dances. Commencement, that all important day, and the other activities that make up the last days of a high school career are yet before us. Everyone is looking forward to "Skidding", the class play, and to make it a big success. And even now much has been omitted in this summary. Surely some mention should be made of the splendid athletic record made by some of the senior boys: Wayne Seramur, Evert Linton, Charles Busenburg, George Everetts, Roy Brittan, Wilbur Luke, Charles Hough and the others who helped gain honors for C. P. H. S. in football, basketball and track. Members of the class have been active in all the extra-curricular activities: Pepinella club, Hi-Y, band, orchestra, Inklings staff, glee club, debate—but space limits a record that is now far too long and we can only say that the class of '31 has left a record that is indeed commendable.

Senior Class Prophecy

One afternoon Margaret Ross, a noted crystal gazer, was pondering over the past and her thoughts rambled back to her high school days and her associates. Wondering what they were all doing she took out her crystal ball to see what she might discover. This is what she saw:

Evert Linton patrolling the highways as a motorcycle cop. He looked just as stunning in a uniform as he ever did.

Wayne Seramur as head coach and athletic director at Purdue University. With him was his wife whom she remembered as Alice Burroughs. It seems that Alice is still at her old job—coaching Wayne.

Roy Brittan conducting a huge band in a concert. It was clear that Roy had become the greatest band master in the country, rivaling and some people think even surpassing the great Sousa.

Alice Fisher as the wife of a prominent Crown Point doctor, helping her husband in his office.

Charles Busenburg giving his new rocket plane a send-off to Mars. It was well known that Charles had made many inventions which had sent aviation ahead by leaps and bounds.

Rose Batterman leading a tiny girl by the hand. How strange to think that the little girl was Rose's grand daughter.

Lucile Gard, whom she remembered as a dear friend to Rose, recovering from an injury she had suffered in an airplane accident. It looked as though Lucile would never walk again.

Robert Sherman feeding his dogs. Bob had always had a dog with him when he was in high school. He now had one of the largest dog farms in the country. There seemed to be a representative of every kind of dog at his farm.

Eleanor Letz supervising a yard party which seemed to be for charity. Of course Eleanor was married.

She was without doubt the social axis of Leroy and was apparently very happy and prosperous.

Vernon Luke rounding up great heads of steers somewhere on the plains of the Argentine.

Maxine Norton on the stage interpreting a modern drama. Thousands of people were applauding her fine performance, including Arthur.

Wilbur Luke making a speech in Congress as a senator from Indiana.

Viola Schultz as owner of the famous Red Feather Night Club at which she had been a hostess for ten years.

Orville Truelli in front of a side show of a circus "barking" away for all he was worth. All the circus tents bore the name of George Everetts. He had turned out to be a bigger circus man than either of the Ringling Brothers had ever been.

Could it be? It was, Florence Selkow, now universally known as "Flossie the Flirt" laying down the law to a bunch of crooks, and showing them how it was done.

A crowd gathering in a street. A little child had been run over and was bleeding badly. A doctor stepped forth who was none other than Alvin Bixenman. The child's mother rushed forward and what a coincidence that she should be Mildred Letz. Mildred's husband, one of her father's former employees, and her twelve other children were with her. Alvin handled the case very efficiently. He was known to hold marathon dances in very high esteem. He had won several contests himself.

Harold Hershman was right at hand to take care of any law suits that might arise from the accident. "Hershy" had become quite a specialist in his line, which wasn't accidents but divorce cases. He was rather experienced, having had two himself.

Marjorie Seramur in the operating room of a hospital at Gary, Indiana, administering ether to an unruly patient whom, it appeared, was one of her former suitors.

Lester Heisterberg in all his glory running the World's Fair as mayor of Chicago. It was now as peaceful as Zion City due to his reign with an iron hand. Without a doubt he was the biggest and best mayor Chicago had had since Thompson's regime.

Ruth Letz was quite happy in her social obligations as first lady of the land, entertaining the Prince of Wales and his wife, Virginia Kyle was the wife of the Prince. She was still on the stage much against her husband's wishes. But she always had a way with the men.

Harold Heisterberg as alderman of the first ward in Chicago in his office being assisted by his wife, Laura Reigart. It will be remembered that they were married the Saturday following commencement.

Doris Enterline in her studio working on her masterpiece. It was rumored that she had her hands insured for one hundred thousand dollars. Her husband was with her, helping or hindering as the case might be, and of course it was Johnny.

David Weinberg taking part in a big golf tournament in England. Dave was the favorite and it looked like a certain victory.

Margaret Heintz in a session with the President of the United States, who seemed to be declaring war. As his private secretary of course she was taking notes on the session.

Harold Patz as a great orator speaking before a large group of women's clubs.

Ruth Ewer coaching the debating squad at Chicago University. It was known that the University had not lost a debate since she had been the coach there.

Leona Nielson operating a beauty salon in Valparaiso which was patronized by the select, both men and women.

Harold Reeder, a second Sherlock Holmes arresting Helen Gilbey for smuggling diamonds into this country. Helen had proved very elusive and it had been only with the greatest difficulty that Harold had captured her.

Helen McCaslin as a great poetess delivering one of her greatest works of art before a high school assembly, which would undoubtedly appreciate it.

Russell Gard on the lot as Hollywood's leading man. He captured the hearts of all the fair damsels who chanced to see him on or off the screen.

Katherine Fisher was preparing to take a trip around the world. She had just completed a new dictionary.

Emma Sonnenberg as the owner of the A & P chain stores starting a war against home owned stores.

Charles Hough as a dentist of renown replacing some teeth that had been either extracted or knocked out. People visited Charles from all over the country—he was such an expert in his line.

Mary Margaret Benjamin as a great weather prophet. She was sitting on a high bench gazing at the silver loving cup which had just been presented to her for prophesying weather correctly for two years.

Viola Weber as a piano player who was one of the stars on the Columbus Broad Casting Network. Of course she was married, but her husband wasn't with her.

Miss Bollenbach happily married to a former teacher in Crown Point.

Mr. Pruitt enjoying a football game at Indiana University where his son was the hero of the game.

Senior Class Play -- "Skidding"

The play "Skidding" was produced by the Senior Class of 1931, under the direction of Miss Margaret Bollenbach. It was given on May 8th, 1931, in the Community building, before a large and appreciative audience.

The plot synopsis and characters follow: A fresh, sincere picture of American family life, showing Marion Hardy, (Virginia Kyle) a modern college girl who falls ecstatically in love with Wayne Trenton (Robert Sherman) just as a career is opening up to her, and the difficulties she has in adjusting her romance. Then there are the two pretty young daughters (Alice Burroughs and Marjorie Seramur) who chose to marry before they finished their education and want to "come home to mother" at the first sign of trouble. Mother Hardy (Maxine Norton) is so upset at the modern tendencies of her daughters, that she goes on a strike in order to straighten out her family. Young Andy Hardy (Charles Busenburg) is an adorable adolescent lad with his first "case", a typical Booth Tarkington part. He keeps the audience in a gale of merriment with his humorous observances. Grandpa Hardy (Roy Brittan) touches the heart with his absent mindedness and his reminiscences about Grandma; and the white satin slippers he makes for Marion to be married in, has a great deal to do with straightening out her love affair. Humor is blended with pathos and a deliciously garnished philosophy makes "Skidding" more significant than the average comedy. It is life! Other characters in the play are Aunt Millie (Mary Margaret Benjamin) Mr. Stubbins (Wayne Seramur, and Judge Hardy (Harold Hershman).

Senior Class Will

We, the members of the class of 1931 of the Crown Point High School, do hereby bequeath the following things to our fellow students:

Charles Busenbuerg leaves his unruy hair to Bud Taylor.

Lucile Gard bequeaths her parking places at the school house to Lela Lottes.

Roy Brittan leaves his musical ability to Wilbur Blocker, whom we hope will appreciate it.

Margaret Brittan will her dramatic ability to Dorothy Diddle.

Mildred Letz bequeaths her scholastic standing to Bud Parry.

Harold Reeder wills his ability to farm to Joe Horn.

Ruth Letz leaves her afternoons off to Anna Homeier.

Emma Sonnenberg wills her basket ball ability to Mary Anna Place.

Lester Heisterberg leaves his marvellous physique to Dick Collins.

Eleanor Letz bequeaths her week end trips to East Chicago to Joyce Frame.

Maxine Norton leaves her junior boy friend to some junior girl.

Harold Heisterberg wills his country home to Macolm Clark.

Elsie Kabella leaves her escort to and from school to Adah Letz.

Virginia Simmons leaves her trips to the post office to Helen Burroughs.

Robert Sherman leaves his dog and his car to Bud Blim.

Laura Rigert leaves her rides on the bus to Peg Boye.

Florence Selkow wills her office as senior class president to the most efficient junior.

Alvin Bixenman bequeaths his ability to wise-crack to Dean Harper.

Viola Schultz wills her lunch box to Malcolm Stonex.

Doris Enterline leaves her finger

"GOOD-BYE TO C. P. H. S."

The year is slowly closing,
And Seniors breathe a sigh,
We know the end is coming
And soon we'll say good-bye.

We love this old school
And all that's in it dear,
It's awfully hard to leave
Without the shed of tears.

To you, dear old Crown Point High
We'll ever look with pride,
'Twas through you, old High,
We found a hope and guide.

To teachers, one and all,
We give a hearty thanks
'Twas through you, we learned,
And still had lots of pranks.

Whatever course we may choose,
We'll always fight to win;
And when, at last, we reach the heights,
Crown Point High we'll thank again.

And so to our Alma Mater,
We shout the highest praise;
May she always live forever,
And her banner proudly raise.
—Helen McCaslin.

Harold Hershman bequeaths his Studebakers to Kenneth Haniford.

Margaret Ross leaves her soprano voice to Ruth Taylor.

George Everetts bequeaths his knowledge of chemistry to Bill Patch.

The Senior Class sincerely wills its fondest and deepest hopes for the speedy recovery of their classmate, Viola Weber.

Junior Class History

On September 7, 1928, the mammoth dirigible, Class of '32, took off from depot C. P. H. S. It was manned by nearly 85 healthy, but rather green Freshmen.

Helen Burroughs was chosen as chief pilot with Tom Pollen and Jennie Egelski to aid her.

No disaster of any great note befell the good craft on its first trip. The program given the night of the Hallowe'en Carnival of '28 was pretty keen. (Ask Florence Helrich or Tom Wise). A party was also enjoyed in the high school gym about the middle of the year. After nine months the non-stop flight came to an end, sadly in need of repairs (not the flight—the ship). Some of the crew who changed ships or used their parachutes after the first trip were Dorothy Biegel, Robert Bolt, Merriam Claussen, Elinor Deering, Herman Fox, Anna Kubrick, Leroy Neier, Victor Neier, and Florence Helrich.

In 1929 the dirigible's officers changed. This trip Bill Horst was chief pilot with Luther Ballan and Blanche Gault to help him. Two more worthy buddies were also picked up, Frances Stiener and Dorothy Swain.

Around the first of March of 1930, the crew united with the Class of '33 in a freshman—sophomore dance. Boy! what a night!

At the end of the second flight another high point was reached in the pledging of Pepinella members. Oh gee! More thrills! More fun! More hairpins lost! Ohh—!

Soon after this, however the ship again landed for a general overhauling and many of our fellow aviators took their leave. They were Constantine Argus, Lester Blank, Arthur Dance, Louise Griver, Florence Post, Beatrice Henning and Mae Heick.

The third flight promised to far surpass the other two. Arthur Gibbs was elected chief pilot this time with three helpers; namely John Bareman, Robert Ross and Jennie Egelski. Florence Helrich came back at the beginning of the trip and about the middle of the year Mae Heick found her way back. Russell Pratt became a warrior of the air a few weeks later.

After a month of sailing, the

On September 2, 1929, a good sized group of green, young hopefuls entered the portals of C. P. H. S., and became the class of '33, destined to do big things.

After the first six weeks things began to happen and on the varsity football spud Bob Sullivan played as a regular and several other boys showed great promise for the coming year.

In October at the annual carnival election we placed a freshman queen, Evelyn Margison.

Then came the operetta "The Sunbonnet Girl" with several of our girls singing in the choruses and Peg Boye heading the list with a solo.

In girls' basketball seven freshmen made the first squad. Among them was Maxine Woods, who received one of the sweaters they so generously supplied the girls with.

The boys had a good freshman team and when track came along several of our boys showed up fine.

Then school dismissed and we became full fledged sophs and quite ready and fitted to put the incoming freshies in their places, but we lost nearly thirty members of our one hundred and ten.

At the beginning of our soph year several boys got sweaters for football. Martha Parry relieved Dorothy Hodges in the president's chair and in another operetta, "Hulda of Holland", Joe Horn played an important part and several girls sang in choruses.

At Hallowe'en a sophomore king occupied the throne. Dick Madsen, and by the way, our royalty seem to be strangely attracted to each other and it looks rather permanent.

On the 26th of November we threw our first big dance.

Three of our boys played on the team, and several played on the second team. In the class tourney the soph girls defeated the freshmen and seniors for the championship. The boys beat the freshmen and juniors for the championship, also.

Now, we're ready to begin our junior year with nearly eighty members.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Freshman Class Notes

There are eighty one freshman in the high school this year making it and the sophomore class the same size and also the two largest classes in school.

This class left Miss Dutton and Miss Smith on May 22, 1930, after having acquired a lot of knowledge.

The president of the class is William H. Fifeild. Mr. Mahan and Mr. Songer have charge of the freshman boys, and Mrs. Seamonson and Miss Sowash have charge of the girls.

At the time the Carnival Ernest Milburn and Mildred Gerlach were freshman king and queen elects. Miss Sowash's advisory had a picture gallery which was quite a success. Mrs. Seamonson's advisory had a candy stand which was never in need of customers.

At Christmas time about sixteen of Miss Sowash's girls went to her home on Court street and had a party. They exchanged gifts and all those present enjoyed the evening.

There were seven freshman boys out for football, and about that many for basketball.

Several freshman girls and boys were in the operetta, "Hulda of Holland."

EIGHTH GRADE

SEVENTH GRADE

Football Notes and Schedule

Captain Wayne Seramur filled a half back position. He was a heavy line plunger and a fast man around the ends, as well as a consistent punter and place kicker.

Charles Busenburg, although rather light, played center. He made many nice passes from center and broke up many would-be touchdowns.

Charles Hough, right end, was a good wing man and would snatch long passes out of the air. He was good at kicking, also, as a tackler.

Bill Fatch was a fast half back and a good ground gainer, especially on going through the line. This was his first year on the team.

Wilbur Luke, guard followed the ball well and recovered many fumbles during the season. He could block and tackle very well.

Dick Madsen, quarter back, was a cool field general and followed the team well. He was accurate on pass behind the line as well as forward passes, and could carry the ball. (Hell was also very good at tackle position.)

Bill Horst, fullback, was a great player. He could always be depended upon to gain some ground, and usually broke through the line for long gains. He was accurate at passing and a sure tackler.

Evert Linton played left end, and had an ideal build for his position. He could catch difficult passes and was a good sprinter in an open field.

Burton Ellis, end, with his build he was well suited for this position

HIGH SCHOOL BASKET BALL TEAM

Basketball Notes

Captain Wayne Seramur has played nearly every position on the team and can look back with pride on the three years of varsity competition. In the first year he played back guard, the next, center, and the last, guard and center. He was good at short shots and also at long shots, and a driving dribbler, but his best work was on defensive.

Bill Horst played forward and was a good bulwark of defense. He was a bulwark on defense. He take the ball down the floor any old time.

Dick Madsen, forward, was a fast player and a dead shot from the foul line and from side lines. He will be back next year and then watch him.

Dick Collins played a very good game at guard. When he became ill he was greatly missed by everyone, but better luck next year, Dick.

Charles Busenburg played forward and was a very clever dribbler. He was a fast player and always came to the rescue.

Evert Linton, forward, was a good defensive player. He had little trouble in getting the ball into the basket.

Bill Fatch, playing his first year, showed up wonderfully. He played a nice defensive game all the year through.

Tom Wise had the misfortune of having to leave the team at a critical time. He was a wonderful guard.

Wilbur Blocker played the whole season as floor guard and went to the tournament. He filled his position creditably.

Roy Brittan showed up very well in his position. He could do some nice dribbling.

Wilbur Luke played a nice defensive game. He was a good, dependable man.

George Everetts was a very fast dribbler and could shoot from any angle of the floor.

feminine part of the crew (Miss Green's and Mrs. Thomas' advisory groups) enjoyed a most thrilling evening of hot dogs and pickles at Wonder Lake.

Part of the crew was called upon to entertain the older and younger shipmates about the first of 1930. This was most successfully done by the presentation of "The Wasp's Nest", a mystery comedy in three acts.

The day after this the Varsity football team tied Lowell High school team and the Class of '32 united with the Athletic Association in a "Victory Dance". Some hop!

Everything sailed along smoothly from then on. Not once did the motor miss. Affairs were too calm (exam worries excepted) so the Royal Eagles of the air threw a Christmas Dance which proved especially beneficial for some. (How about it, Gibbs?)

Full speed again after Christmas vacation! Clear sailing after mid-year exams. A high point in class history when the junior boys won the preliminaries of the inter-class basket ball tournament and held the sophs to a hard battle at the finals.

More happiness! When late in the third flight, the annual Spring Dance ensued.

All those who manned the Blue and Gold dirigible on the first three flights are looking forward to the great fourth flight through the clear skies of Senior-dom.

Pepinella

The Pepinella girls started out the year by selling tickets and candy at the football games. They took an active part in the cheering. New members were taken in a week before Christmas and appeared at the Lowell-Crown Point game as kids with hair ribbons and dolls. A few prospective yell leaders were discovered. After Christmas the initiation party was held. We regret to remember that Wilma, Evelyn and Irene suffered ill effects, but they weren't lasting. The "Date Party" was the biggest event of the year. Exciting things happened both Saturday and Sunday. Of course everyone danced and partook of the refreshments. Some of the alumni honored us with their presence, also Wilma Beaver, whom we were all glad to see. The boys are all anxious to see the girls' pins which they expect to get soon.

As to the seniors what will the rest of the club do without:—

Maxine making bright remarks during the meetings.

Millie collecting dues.

Alice F. Giggling.

Emma and Elsie hurrying the meetings so they could leave.

Eleanor's cars (for victory parades).

Rose and Lucille sitting together.

Margaret and her clarinet.

Katherine (making suggestions).

Florence adding dignity to every occasion.

Leona present at every meeting.

Ruth and her curls at the kid parties.

Marjorie presiding.

Mildred collecting half dollars.

Doris, as reporter, making suggestions. (Any one as small as Doris).

Gin. K. sitting in the front seat.

Margaret Heintz willing to do anything that's asked.

Margie on the decoration committees.

and could either make a hole in the line or grab a pass for a long gain. Kenneth Haniford also played end and did it equally as well as the others.

Wilbur Blocker, a veteran tackle, had a habit of getting through the line, and blocking punts or getting the runner.

Walter West also played tackle, being his first year made him rather inexperienced.

Malcolm Stonex, was a reliable tackle, although rather light for his position. He worked hard and will be a great help next year.

Bob Sullivan was a fast half back. He did much of the punting and was good at tackling.

Kenneth Linton played a good game at quarter back. He was a fast man and downed many prospective heroes.

Malcolm Clark played half back. Although inexperienced, he was a good defensive man.

Earl Buckley played end, but was rather inexperienced, being only a first year man.

Orville Truelly, guard, played very well. He was a good passer from center.

Bill Fifield, half back, often broke through on offense.

Bob Ross, guard, will be a fine man for next year.

Harold Hershman played tackle or guard.

Harold Meeker could play end and was a fast open field man.

John Baraman played tackle or guard, although rather light.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE 1931

The football games for 1931 to be played on the home field are with Morocco, Valparaiso, Lew Wallace, and Hobart. The team will journey to the following towns for their away from home games: Laporte, Hammond Tech, Lowell, and Mooseheart B.

Junior High Notes

Several boys are especially interested in civics now, as they are planning to take merit tests in civics with their scout work.

Good scrap-books are being handed in on transportation and communication.

The boys of the junior high advisory groups are planning a schedule of baseball games.

The eighth grade attended an embezzement trial at the Criminal Court building Tuesday afternoon, April 21st.

The students of the eighth grade will hold a class party at the Kemp cottage, Cedar Lake. The date will be decided later.

Sassietty Notes

Remember way back when—
Harold Hershman liked Janet Iddings?

Doris Enterline drew pictures of Bill Murton?

Alice and Wayne first met each other?

The seniors were mere freshmen
Virginia was the sheriff's daughter?

There were 80 people in the class of 1931?

Some of the class took Biology under Mr. Stevens?

Marguerite Baxter was a member of the class?

There were orientation classes?
We never heard the "musical Brittans"?

Alice Fisher liked a "certain doctor's son"?

Alice Burroughs went with John Wise?

Mildred Letz and Vernon Gieson were "that way" about each other?

Miss Bollenbach didn't know Mr. McMillan?

Don Lewsader was a member of the class of 1931?

The Pullen brothers entertained the students?

Russel Gard was Harriet Bartlett's "boy friend"?

Harold Hodges thought a good deal of Evelyn Reiser?

Charles Hough was "head over heels" about Eleanor?

The Junior play of 1930 was a big success?

Bob Sherman wrote notes to Mabel Zeisness?

Ruth Letz didn't make so many visits to Chicago?

Busie didn't know Lucille—so well?

Rose and Lucile entered high school?

Alvin didn't own a jalope?

Margaret Benjamin received notes from a young fellow when she was 13?

Eleanor Letz thought nothing of Ziggy?

Everett Linton was in the seventh grade?

George Everett entertained the Frame sisters?

Leona Neilson wrote letters to Valpo?

Virginia Simmons didn't go to the post office so frequently?

Elsie didn't like Sherman?

Emma wasn't interested in independent tourneys?

Katherine Fisher liked the same fellow as her cousin, Alice?

Helen Gilbey, Laura R., and Margaret Ross entered C. P. H. S.?

Helen McCaslin attended Merrillville High?

Margaret Heintz walked to school with Joe Horn?

Marjorie was president of the sophomore class?

Harold Patz and Harold Reeder were mere youngsters?

Florence Selkow was in the operetta?

The Luke boys wore short pants? The Heisterberg cousins were the same size?

David Weinberg didn't have the "golf bug"?

Viola Schultz wore half socks?

Orville Truelly wasn't known as "Farmer"?

Maxine wore Will's class ring?

The Laff Section

Boss—How is it, Linton, you are never at work on time in the morning and often leave too early in the evening?

Evy—Well, sir you told me not to watch the clock, so I don't pay any attention to it.

"Oh, I'm in such a perspiration!" cried the girl student.

"Miss Heintz," rebuked the austere teacher, "I hope I shall never again hear such an expression. Kindly remember that horses sweat, men perspire, but young ladies glow."

Waiter—Haven't they given you a menu yet, sir?

Wilbur L.—Yes, but I finished that an hour ago.

Maxine: Have you heard the Tarzan song?

Bob Sherman: Shoot it.

Maxine: I'm dancing with tears in my eyes.

New Bank Clerk: Miss Jones, do you retire a loan?

Stenog: No, I sleep with Aunt Emma.

"How could you be so deceitful as to tell her that she was pretty."

"I wasn't deceitful, at all."

"You don't mean to say you you think she is actually pretty?"

"Of course not. What I told her was that she was as pretty as she could be."

Orville T.—What are you burying in your back yard?

Russell G.—Just planting some of my seeds.

Orville—Huh, it looks more like one of my hens.

Russell—Well, the seeds are inside.

At least, unemployed apples should have no worms working in them.

And then there was the young man who called on the school teacher and had to stay an extra hour for being naughty.

Gin: What makes you eat your ice cream first and your soup last?

Gingerale: My stomach's upset so I eat my food backwards.

American Watches

FROM a watch to take along on a week's fishing in the North Woods to a watch that belongs only at the snarkest social event of the year ... there is an American-made model to fit the occasion.

American watches offer a greater variety of choice, at a greater variety of prices, than any other watches in the world ... and each and every one of them with that superior accuracy and confidence of life-long service that characterizes American-made timekeepers. See our range of models and prices.
